

Cameryn Mitchell is a transplant to Rock Hill via Winthrop University where she earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration with a concentration in Human Resource Management. Mitchell leads a career that is focused on engagement and service, with a focus on creating equal employment and advancement opportunities for current and future generations. She has served in human resources and talent development roles at various organizations gaining experience within the federal government, non-profit agencies, and international corporations. Currently, she works as the Workforce and Talent Development Coordinator for the City of Rock Hill's Economic & Urban Development department and supports the Rock Hill Economic Development Council's Talent Development Committee. Mitchell is also a founding member of the Black Economic Leadership League of Rock Hill, an organization whose mission is to be a resource and advocate for the Black community and the City of Rock Hill. She currently serves as the Chair of the Leadership Development & Training Committee where she works to educate B.E.L.L. 's members on resources available to strengthen their businesses and/or professional careers.